No Deadline for Auto Smog Device Seen by Firms

Although both the Ford Motor Company and the Chrysler Corporation report that work on the development of a device to eliminate air pollutants from automobile exhausts has been speeded up, neither believes that an effective deadline date can be set by the Board of Supervisors for the successful completion of the anti-smog device.

In reply to a letter by Supervisor Kenneth Hahn in which he notified the automobile industry that the Board of Supervisors is planning to hold a public hearing on the establishing of a deadline date for the perfection of an auto exhaust control device and urged industry leaders to institute a 24 hour a day crash program, Charles M.

Heinen, Assistant Chief Engineer, Chrysler Corporation, replied:

"It has been possible to accelerate our efforts on afterburning devices during the last few months. Although we do not believe that it is technically possible at present to establish a realistic deadline date for the installation of exhaust devices, we will be happy to discuss the status of our work, the difficulties which we are encountering and the efforts which we are making to overcome them."

J. M. Chandler, of the Test Engineering Section, Ford Motor Company, stated: "You can rest assured that our work on the catalytic afterburner is progressing at maximum speed under top priority. To set a date for the completion of such an extensive research and development program is, of course, impossible until the basic research has been completed and proven."

Among the events planned is a give-away stunt, gifts, free membership in the record club. A Dwight Eubanks Rambler station wagon, which will be posted at Southwood Camera as part of the campaign, will be entered in Saturday's Rancho Days parade.

"Young drivers properly trained now will reduce future traffic accidents, but population increases require a rapid expansion of driver training facilities," says Judson B. Branch, president of Allstate Insurance Companies. "Fourteen states already are offering financial aid to driver education programs, setting a pattern that will help provide adequate driver training courses for more high school students."

Drinking is the No. 1 contributory factor in single car accidents, according to a 1957 study made by the Connecticut Safety Commission. Liquor was involved in 52.7 per cent of the total cases in which cars ran off the road and during the hours of darkness alcohol was present in three out of four fatal smashups of this type.
